

Identifying and Proposing New Club Members

Proposing new members is essential to achieving Rotary's goals of providing community and international service. As a Rotarian, one of your primary responsibilities is to help identify and propose new members.

Contribute to your club's membership by bringing in qualified business and professional leaders who are interested in and committed to advancing the mission of Rotary. Together with your fellow Rotarians, you can help your club fully represent your community's business and professional life.

Identifying Qualified Candidates

Qualified candidates for Rotary membership are adults of good character and good business and professional reputation, who hold or have held an executive position with discretionary authority in any worthy and recognized business or profession.

Attracting Prospective Members

Given copies of Rotary Basics, This Is Rotary, and What's Rotary? to the prospective member?

Provided the prospective member with information about membership benefits and responsibilities?

Encouraged the prospective member to tour the RI Web site,
<https://www.rotary.org/myrotary/en?>

Presented your club's projects and programs to the prospective member?

Invite prospective members to a club activity or a service project.
